This is the third of a series of new-style Iowa county histories which will eventually include all of the 99 counties of the Hawkeye State. It is part of an over-all publishing project known as The American Aerial County History Series—a project that, ultimately, will embrace all of the 3,103 counties of the United States. A list of already-published volumes for Illinois, Indiana and Iowa is printed on the back of the title page of this work.

Each book specializes in low-altitude aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads. In each volume, also, are a streamlined history of the county and brief historical narratives of its cities, towns and villages. The text for each volume is being written by John Drury, author of Historic Midwest Houses, Midwest Heritage, etc., and member of the American Association for State and Local History and the Illinois State Historical Society.

STORY OF HENRY COUNTY

STORY OF HENRY COUNTY, IOWA

Located in the southeast corner of Iowa, just beyond Burlington city, Henry County is not only a fully developed agricultural county but is the site of three outstanding institutions of the state, Iowa Wesleyan College, Henry County Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Hospital and the Iowa State Hospital for the Insane. Here, also, are two popular recreation areas, Geode State Park and Oakland Mills Recreation Reserve, both of which annually attract many visitors from outside the county.

It was in Henry County that the first settlement of Quakers west of the Mississippi River was established more than a hundred years ago; members of this sect were the parents of Iowa-born Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States. Later in its history Henry County produced James Harlan, appointed Secretary of the Interior by President Lincoln and whose only daughter married Lincoln's son, Robert Todd Lincoln. At a still later period, Henry County produced Frank Lundeen, one-time world champion horseshoe pitcher, and Harry C. Pidgeon, who voyaged around the world in a homemade boat.

Among distinguished residents of the county today are the Reverend John R. Chadwick, president of Iowa Wesleyan College; Dean Richard K. Ellis, business manager and dean of the college; Professor Harry E. Jaques, head of the college's biology department and author of numerous natural history guides; and Miss Margaret L. Mohler, civic leader at Mount Pleasant and former director of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Although some manufacturing is done at the county's seat of justice, Mount Pleasant, and in other towns of the locality, Henry County derives its greatest wealth from grain and livestock farming. In 1950, or in mid-twentieth century, the value of all farm products—crops, livestock, poultry, dairy products—sold in the county amounted to $12,028,000, whereas, about the same time, the value of goods and articles manufactured in the county amounted to $2,459,000.

INDIAN OCCUPATION

When white men first began to roam over the prairie region that now is the commonwealth of Iowa, they found here a few villages of an Indian tribe known as the "Ioway" or "Iowa"—a group that gave its name to the state. At a later period came the Sauks and Foxes, and the men of these tribes hunted and fished up and down the Des Moines, the Iowa, the Skunk and other rivers of the countryside. In the years just before the American Revolution, three outstanding chiefs of the Sauks and Foxes arose who played important roles in the early history of the Iowa region. These three were Black Hawk, Keokuk and Wapello.

Although Chiefs Keokuk and Wapello did not resist the westward march of white men and early moved across the Mississippi River into the Iowa country, Black Hawk decided to fight the whites and it was this stand that brought on the Black Hawk War of 1832. It was a short-lived conflict fought mostly in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. When Black Hawk lost the war, he was allowed by the government to join his brother chiefs in the area that became Iowa. A year or two after the war, the government removed all Indians of the Iowa country beyond a line fifty miles west of the Mississippi River, and thus the eastern portion of the area (including future Henry County) was opened to white settlement.

TERRITORIAL DAYS

Originally, the Iowa countryside, and all of the upper Mississippi Valley, was claimed by France after it was discovered by Father Marquette and Louis Jolliet in 1673. Then, a little more than a hundred years later, it was transferred to Spain—that is, all of the vast prairie empire lying between the Mississippi River and approximately the Rocky Mountains. In 1800 this great domain once more came under the French flag and so remained until 1803 when the United States purchased it. This was the famous Louisiana Purchase.

After being part of Missouri Territory (1812-1821), an unorganized region (1821-1834), part of Michigan Territory (1835) and part of Wisconsin Territory (1836-1838), the grassy Iowa countryside finally became a territory of its own on July 4, 1838. Its first territorial governor was Robert Lucas and its first capital was at Burlington. At that time the population of the new territory, which included the future state of Minnesota, was 22,859. As population increased in the years following, a movement was started for statehood. This was finally achieved in 1846 when Iowa was reduced to its present size.

When Henry County was first created in 1836, however, it and all the rest of the Iowa countryside was part of the Territory of Wisconsin. And thus it remained until 1839 when the county was formally organized as a governmental unit in the new Territory of Iowa.

FIRST SETTLER

It was not until after the close of the Black Hawk War of 1832 that the first settler came to the area embraced within the present boundaries of Henry County. That pioneer was James Dawson. He arrived in the spring of 1834 and staked out a claim on the fertile prairies just west of the site of future Mount Pleasant. At that time, of course, there was no Henry County; the place that Dawson had chosen was part of Des Moines County and all of the Iowa countryside was then in Wisconsin Territory.

ARRIVAL OF PRESLEY SAUNDERS

But James Dawson did not long remain the only settler in the region. Several months later, or in the fall of 1834, there came to the same area Presley Saunders, a native of Springfield, Illinois. Although not an educated man, Presley Saunders appears to have been a shrewd individual who saw the future possibilities of the Iowa country. For one thing, he staked out his claim on the pleasant elevation that now contains Mount Pleasant. And here it was he platted the town only a year after his arrival.

MOUNT PLEASANT FOUNDED

We are told that as soon as Presley Saunders arrived at the elevation of land almost in the center of the present county, he noted at once its advantage as a townsite. In any case, he made a plat of a town here in 1835. Then, in 1837, the Wisconsin territorial legislature designated the new Saunders town, which was named Mount Pleasant, as the seat of justice for Henry County.

By this time, there were quite a few settlers established on claims in various parts of Henry County. In addition to James Dawson and Presley Saunders these included Joseph Moore, Abraham C. Dover, John Wilford, the Reverend W. M. Morrow, Aaron Street, Jesse Hancock and the Reverend Samuel Hutton. All of them lived at first in log cabins.

HENRY COUNTY ORGANIZED

As we have already seen, what is now Henry County was originally part of Des Moines County, which, in turn, was part of Wisconsin Territory. In 1836, however, the Wisconsin territorial legislature created a new county out of a portion of Des Moines County and bestowed on it the given name of Henry Dodge, first territorial governor of Wisconsin. When Henry County thus came into being, it was a much larger locality than at present, embracing portions of not only present-day Des Moines County but of Lee, Van Buren, Jefferson and Washington counties. It was reduced to its present size, however, on January 21, 1839, one year after the Territory of Iowa was established. By that time, many new counties had been set up in the new territory.

GOVERNOR HENRY DODGE

One of the most colorful characters of early Wisconsin history was the state's first territorial governor, Henry Dodge, whose given name is now borne by Henry County, Iowa. Originally a lead miner in the lower Wisconsin countryside, he attained prominence in the Black Hawk War of 1832 as commander of a fast-moving unit of mobile rangers. When the Territory of Wisconsin was organized in 1836, Dodge was appointed its first governor by President Jackson.

After serving as territorial governor for five years, Dodge was replaced by his political rival, James Duane Doty. But in 1845 he was re-appointed governor by President Polk and held this office until Wisconsin became a state in 1848. He subsequently was elected United States senator for Wisconsin and served in that body until his retirement in 1857. The former territorial governor died in 1867.

TRENTON PLATTED

In the same year that Henry County was created (1836) a newcomer arrived from Illinois and staked out a claim in the countryside just northwest of Mount Pleasant. He was Michael Crane. Soon after completing a log cabin that same year, Crane platted a townsite on his claim and named it Lancaster. In the following year, however, he sold his townsite to Samuel Brazelton, Colonel Parker and George Miller. After re-surveying the site, these three men changed its name to Trenton and soon were selling lots at the place. Today, Trenton is a quiet village of some fifty inhabitants located in the fertile farming area in the northwest portion of Henry County.

FIRST COUNTY OFFICERS

Although Henry County was created by the Wisconsin territorial legislature in 1836, it was not until 1837 that the new county held its first election of public officials. When the votes were counted at that first election, it was found that the following early settlers had been chosen for public office: Samuel Brazelton, Robert Caulk and George J. Sharp, county commissioners; W. D. Brown, sheriff; Dayton C. Ruberts, treasurer; John Riddle, coroner; John H. Randolph, recorder; and Jesse D. Payne, clerk.

In the same year this first election was held, Mount Pleasant was designated the new county's seat of justice by the Wisconsin territorial legislature. It was Jesse D. Payne who presented a petition before that legislative body calling for the formal political organization of Henry County. The first term of the Circuit Court in Henry County was held in April, 1837, in a log cabin dwelling in Mount Pleasant. It was presided over by Judge David Irwin.

RECORDER'S FIRST ENTRY

The following legal description of Mount Pleasant as it was in 1837 is a true copy of the first entry in the county recorder's book, with the misspelled words, frequent capitalizations, etc., retained: "The Town of Mount Pleasant in the County of Henry Contains Therty Five Blocks and each Block Eight Lotts and the sise of each Lot is One Hundred and Fifty Feete East & West and Eighty Feete North & South the Street passing The Block No. 34 which is the Publick Squar ar each Twenty eight Feete wide and all the rest Sixty Feete wide the Alleys running North & South through the center of each Block is each Sixty Feete wide all the above naim Streets and Alleys with the Squar Block No. 34 are intended for Publick uses. The above naim Town is laid out by the point of the Compass and on the claim of the Proprietor."

This description was signed by Presley Saunders, founder of Mount Pleasant, and dated February 3, 1837. At that time the county recorder was John H. Randolph. In Mount Pleasant today is Saunders Park, a forty-acre recreational area named after the city's first settler.

EARLY TOLL ROADS

One of the first acts of the Henry County board of commissioners was to lay out a road between Mount Pleasant and a small settlement to the west that later became the village of Rome. This was completed in 1837. Additional roads were soon built from Mount Pleasant to other early settlements of the county. It was not until 1853, however, that the county's first toll road was completed. This was called the Burlington & Mount Pleasant Plank Road, and, as explained by its name, ran between those two cities. It was built of sturdy oak planks, eight feet long and three inches thick, and toll gates were placed at regular intervals along the highway. The rate of toll for a horse and wagon was two cents a mile. But this toll road, and others in the county, were soon abandoned when the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad came to Henry County in the late 1850's.

FIRST COURTHOUSE

Pending the construction of its first permanent courthouse, Henry County transacted its official business in various log cabin homes in Mount Pleasant. And this remained the situation until 1839, when the county's first permanent courthouse was completed. It was described in one early account as being thirty feet long and eighteen feet wide, and ten feet high "between the joice." The edifice was built by George W. Patterson, Levi Hagar and Everett Rogers. Soon afterwards, a square log jail, sixteen by sixteen feet, was built by John H. Randolph, who had earlier been elected the county's first recorder.

DOVER BECOMES NEW LONDON

One of the earliest settlers of Henry County was Abraham C. Dover, who came from Illinois in the fall of either 1833 or 1834. Upon his arrival, he made a claim where now stands the town of New London. A year later, he was joined by his brother, Solomon H. Dover. It was in 1837 that Abraham C. Dover conceived the idea of a town on his claim and had it surveyed by Benjamin Matthews, first surveyor of the area. Thereafter, Dover built several cabins on the new townsite. The new town was named Dover. At a later date, however, Dover sold the townsite, and eight additional acres, to Jonathan J. King, who promptly made plans for a larger town. It was King who changed the name of the town to New London. Incidentally, Abraham C. Dover was appointed Henry County's first Justice of the Peace in 1837.

FIRST QUAKER SETTLEMENT

It was in Henry County that the first settlement of Quakers west of the Mississippi River was established about 1835. Among the first Quakers to arrive in the vicinity of present-day Salem, in the southern portion of the county, were Isaac Pidgeon, Aaron Street and Street's daughter, Mrs. Molly Pugh, together with her four children. Soon other members of the Society of Friends came to the same area and the settlement they formed became the "mother colony" of later Quaker communities in other parts of Iowa. One of these communities, West Branch, was the birthplace of Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States.

The town of Salem was laid out in 1839 by Aaron Street and Peter Boyer. To accommodate newly-arrived Quakers, Peter Boyer built the town's first hotel. Meanwhile, Aaron Street was serving as first postmaster. First to build a general store here was John Bell. It was not until 1840 that Salem had its first meeting house, and the first minister here was the Reverend Thomas Frazier. An early institution of higher learning in Salem was Whittier College. It was founded in 1867 and named after the Quaker poet, John G. Whittier. Previous to the Civil War, Salem was a center of "underground railroad" activities, due to the strong anti-slavery feelings of its Quaker residents.

HILLSBORO LAID OUT

Another old community in present-day Salem Township is the small town of Hillsboro, which now has a population of 253. Located in the southwest corner of the county on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 270, this incorporated town was laid out in 1840 by J. R. Moore and William Newman. Among early residents of the town were Colonel Samuel Pope, John Chainholtz and John A. Pope. A description of the town as it was seventy-five years ago (1880) contained these words: "There are three churches, a school, a flouring mill and two or three stores at Hillsboro."

HOWE'S ACADEMY

Said to have been one of the first preparatory schools in Iowa was Howe's Academy, founded at Mount Pleasant in 1844 by Samuel L. Howe, pioneer educator. This academy, established eleven years before the State University of Iowa was opened at Iowa City, afterwards became well known for the many teachers who graduated from it.

Early tuition fees at Howe's Academy ranged from $6 to $9 per session of ten weeks. During its prime in the 1870's the academy had an average yearly enrollment of some 350 students from all parts of the Hawkeye State. In 1897 the academy became affiliated with Iowa Wesleyan College at Mount Pleasant, serving as a preparatory department for the college. But in 1902 this affiliation was ended, and Samuel C. Howe, son of the academy's founder, continued the school as an independent institution. It finally closed its doors in 1916.

IOWA WESLEYAN COLLEGE

An outstanding Methodist institution of higher learning in Iowa is Iowa Wesleyan College. It occupies a park-like campus of twenty-five acres almost in the center of Mount Pleasant city, and has a present enrollment of more than 600 students. This college is one of the oldest in Iowa, having been chartered by the state legislature in 1844. At first it was called Mount Pleasant Collegiate Institute, but in 1911 its name was changed to Iowa Wesleyan College.

One of the founders of the college was the Reverend Aristides J. Heustis, pioneer Methodist Episcopal minister of Mount Pleasant. It was the presence of this college in Mount Pleasant, together with Howe's Academy, that earned for Henry County's seat of justice the title of the "Athens of Iowa" during the early 1850's. At that time the president of Iowa Wesleyan College was James Harlan, one of Henry County's most distinguished citizens. He afterwards became Secretary of the Interior in the cabinet of President Lincoln, and, subsequently, a United States senator for Iowa. His only daughter, Mary, married Robert Todd Lincoln, son of the Great Emancipator.

ROME IS BORN

Although a small settlement was started near the present town of Rome as far back as 1836, it was not until 1846 that the town itself was platted by William Scott, an early pioneer of the area. Believed to have been the first to arrive here was a Mr. Thompson, who came about 1836. A year later William Scott came and built a wayside inn, or hotel, at this point. After laying out the town of Rome in 1846, Scott built several dwellings, and in one of these was held the town's first school. Today, Rome has a population of 134. The town is located west of Mount Pleasant on US 34.

AMISH-MENNONITES

In the northwest corner of the county lies the thriving town of Wayland, with a present population of 600. It is at the center of a large community of Amish-Mennonites, a religious sect originally founded in Germany. Families of this sect came to America at an early day and settled in Pennsylvania; later they moved westward to Illinois and Iowa. When the town of Wayland was first platted in 1851, it was called Marshall. Among earliest residents of the town were H. Williams, J. Plunkett, Zeno Plunkett, Lee Plunkett, R. N. Pickell, George Warren and Curtiss Plifton.

FIRST RAILROAD

An important factor in the social and economic development of Henry County was the appearance of its first railroad. This was the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad. Although organized in 1851, it was not until 1857 that this first "steam road" was completed through Henry County. When the question of subscribing to stock in the new railroad company was submitted to the citizens of Henry County, they voted 1,181 in favor of it, and 445 against it. After the completion of the road, it provided a ready outlet for farm products of the county. This pioneer railroad has since become part of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy System.

IOWA STATE HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE

Founded at Mount Pleasant in 1861, the Iowa State Hospital for the Insane is now one of four such institutions maintained by the commonwealth in various parts of Iowa. Four years after it was opened the Mount Pleasant institution was filled to its capacity of 400 patients. Many additions have made since then, however, and in 1936 it had a total of 1,500 patients. At that time the State's total investment in the hospital amounted to nearly $2,000,000. This included an extensive State Farm east of Mount Pleasant.

SENATOR JAMES HARLAN

When James Harlan became a resident of Mount Pleasant in 1853, having been appointed in that year to the presidency of Iowa Wesleyan College, he began a public career that was to make him not only one of the most famous of Henry County citizens but an outstanding statesman and lawmaker in America during and just after the Civil War. He first came to Iowa in 1845 and, after studying law in Iowa City, was admitted to practice in 1847. He remained an Iowa City attorney until his removal to Mount Pleasant.

An early leader of the Free Soil movement in the Hawkeye State, James Harlan was still head of Iowa Wesleyan College when he was elected to the United States senate in 1855. But because the election was irregular, he resigned his senate seat in 1857 and returned to Mount Pleasant. In 1860, however, Harlan was again elected to the same public office. During the Civil War, he was a close friend and adviser to President Lincoln and a leader in the Pacific Railroad legislation, as well as legislation pertaining to educational land grants and the Homestead Law.

At the end of Harlan's term in the senate, President Lincoln appointed him Secretary of the Interior. He resigned this post in 1866, however, because of his opposition to President Johnson's policies. Harlan was again elected to the senate in 1867 and, while in that body, voted for the impeachment of President Johnson. In 1872 he again ran for the senate but was defeated by William B. Allison of Dubuque.

It was in 1868 that Senator Harlan's only daughter, Mary, became the wife of Robert Todd Lincoln, son of the martyred President. At a later period Robert Todd Lincoln, who lived in Chicago, became president of the Pullman Company. His father-in-law, Senator Harlan, died in 1899. An authoritative biography of him, James Harlan, by J. Brigham, was published in 1913.

GOVERNOR JOSHUA G. NEWBOLD

Another outstanding historical personage of Henry County was Joshua G. Newbold. When Samuel J. Kirkwood, of Iowa City, was first elected Governor of Iowa during the Civil War, Newbold won second place on the same ticket—that of lieutenant-governor. At a later period (1877) Governor Kirkwood was elected to the United States senate. When Kirkwood resigned his office to accept the seat in the senate, Newbold became Acting Governor of Iowa, and served in that capacity for the remainder of Kirkwood's term.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Although maintained solely for patients within the county, the Henry County Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Hospital at Mount Pleasant has won attention beyond the borders of the county because of its progressive administration methods and its ideal setting. It was in 1921 that the city of Mount Pleasant presented a tract of four acres in Saunders Park to the hospital. As a result, patients of the hospital enjoy the benefits of not only their own grounds but of Saunders Park in general—a forty-acre recreational area of rolling hills and woodland groves.

HORSESHOE PITCHING CHAMPION

A resident of the town of New London who achieved wide renown in 1922 was Frank Lundeen. In that year Lundeen became the world's champion horseshoe pitcher. He won the title at matches held in Des Moines and participated in by contestants from all parts of the nation. Since pioneer days the sport of horseshoe pitching has been one of the most popular pastimes of the Iowa countryside.

ROUND THE-WORLD VOYAGER

Another Henry County native son who won world acclaim during the 1920's was Harry C. Pidgeon, who was born near the town of Salem in 1869. It was on November 18, 1921, that Pidgeon, then fifty-two years old, set sail in a boat of his own construction for a round-the-world voyage. He called his craft the Islander. Pidgeon sailed in a leisurely manner, and was indifferent as to when the voyage would be completed—if ever. At night he slept with the tiller lashed hard over, thus causing the Islander to sail only in a circle. He finally completed his round-the-world voyage on October 31, 1925, and was widely acclaimed for the daring feat.

GEODE STATE PARK

Long famed for its peculiar rock formations known as geodes, the geode bed in the southeast corner of Henry County, together with surrounding territory, has been converted into a public recreational area called Geode State Park. The park now embraces an area of 1,572 acres and offers hiking, picnicking and camping opportunities.

The main geode bed in the park is located on Mud Creek. Here are found hollow spheres of rock which, when broken open with a blunt instrument, reveal centers of beautiful quartz crystals of varying colors. The state park is a few miles east of the village of Lowell.

OAKLAND MILLS RECREATION RESERVE

Another popular state park in Henry County is Oakland Mills Recreational Reserve, a tract of 110 acres on the Skunk River about four miles southwest of Mount Pleasant city. The reserve derives its name from an old water mill and dam which stood at this point and which were replaced by a modern hydroelectric plant. On all sides of the power plant are woodland groves and open hilly countryside. The reserve provides fishing, hiking, swimming, picnicking and camping opportunities.

"WHO'S WHO" IN HENRY COUNTY

Included in the latest (1955) edition of that standard reference work, Who's Who in America, are biographies-in-brief of four prominent Henry County citizens of today. All are residents of the city of Mount Pleasant. One of them is the Reverend John R. Chadwick, president of Iowa Wesleyan College. He was born at Condit, Ohio, on September 8, 1896. After studying at Ohio Wesleyan, Boston, Harvard, Oxford (England) and Berlin (Germany) universities, the Reverend Mr. Chadwick served in various pastorates in New England and the Midwest. He was pastor of the First Methodist Church at Appleton, Wisconsin, when appointed to the presidency of Iowa Wesleyan College in 1950.

Also associated with Iowa Wesleyan College is Dean Richard K. Ellis. He was born at Delta, Iowa, on August 4, 1897. In 1920 he received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Iowa Wesleyan College, and in 1930 a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the State University of Iowa. Dean Ellis first came to Iowa Wesleyan College in 1932 as a professor of economics. In 1940 he was appointed dean of the college. In addition to his educational work, Dean Ellis has served as director of research and statistics for the State Department of Social Welfare.

Another in Who's Who in America is Professor Harry E. Jaques, head of the biology department at Iowa Wesleyan College and author of numerous natural history guides. A native of Danville, Iowa, where he was born on July 24, 1880, Professor Jaques received a Bachelor of Science degree from Iowa Wesleyan College in 1911, a Master of Arts degree in 1917, and a Doctor of Science degree in 1925. He has been on the faculty of Iowa Wesleyan College since 1912.

The fourth resident of Henry County listed in the current edition of Who's Who in America is Miss Margaret L. Mohler, a Mount Pleasant civic leader and a former director of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. She was born at Pleasant Plain, Iowa, on July 24, 1897, and educated at St. Joseph (Missouri) Junior College and Washington University. Miss Mohler has been a member of the P.E.O. Sisterhood since 1916 and is at present executive secretary of that organization.

HENRY COUNTY TODAY

On the basis of the latest United States census returns, a statistical profile may be drawn of Henry County as it was in 1950, or in mid-twentieth century. The returns showed that Henry County, in that year, had a total population of 18,708, which placed it 1,548th in population rank among the 3,103 counties of the United States. The figures showed further that its 1950 population was 4 per cent larger than its 1940 population. This increase was centered largely at the county's seat of justice, Mount Pleasant, which in 1950 had a total population of 5,843—an increase of 26.7 per cent over its 1940 figure.

Having a land area of 440 square miles, the county's density of population was 43 inhabitants per square mile. There were 6,637 inhabitants classified as rural residents, 6,228 as rural non-farm residents, and 5,843 as urban residents. At that same period, there were 1,731 infants under five years of age in the county, 2,728 persons sixty-five years old and over, and the median age was given as 35.1 years. There were also 1,325 residents living in some other county of the United States, or abroad, during 1950. The county then had a total of 12,660 potential voters.

Under the heading of vital statistics, Henry County in 1950 had 405 live births, 223 deaths (including 13 infants), and 141 marriages.

The number of families (two or more persons related by marriage or blood) in the county then was 4,800. The median income of all of these families in 1949 was given as $2,746. More than 30 per cent of these families had incomes of less than $2,000, while 13.8 per cent had incomes of $5,000 or more.

In the field of education, the figures revealed there were 2,925 young persons in the county between the ages of seven and seventeen years (school age). Within this total there were 1,955 between the ages of seven and thirteen years (primary school age), and 97.8 per cent of these were enrolled in primary schools. There were also 845 between the ages of fourteen and seventeen years (high school age), and 91.4 per cent of these were enrolled in high schools. Of all persons in the county twenty-five years old and over, it was found that the median number of school years they completed was 9.4. Slightly more than 3 per cent of these completed less than five grades, while 38.8 per cent completed high school or more. The county's institutional population (inmates of homes for dependent or delinquent children, prisons, mental hospitals, etc.) was 1,449. It is to be recalled here that Henry County is the site of the Iowa State Hospital for the Insane.

Under the heading of labor, Henry County in 1950 had a potential labor force of 14,526 (persons fourteen years old and over). Actually employed, however, were 6,286, of which 68.7 per cent were males and 18.5 per cent females. There were 2,128 engaged in agriculture, 1,045 in wholesale and retail trade, 870 in professional and related services (due largely to the presence of Iowa Wesleyan College at Mount Pleasant), 424 in construction, 399 in manufacturing, 339 in transportation, communication and other public utilities, 302 in business and personal services, 137 in finance, insurance and real estate, and 23 in mining. The labor figures were summed up by showing that 34.5 per cent of the county's total employed were engaged in agriculture, while 6.5 per cent were engaged in manufacturing.

On the subject of housing, Henry County in 1950 had a total of 5,598 dwelling units (in 1940 the figure was 5,028). The median number of rooms per unit was 5.8. The figures showed further that 84.9 per cent were one-dwelling unit detached structures (including occupied trailers), 9.1 per cent were built in 1940 or later, and 48.8 per cent had hot running water with private toilet and bath. The median number of persons per unit was 2.7. Also, 65.9 per cent were owner-occupied, 49.2 per cent had central heating, 79.2 per cent had mechanical refrigerators, and 96.6 per cent had radios. There were 3,589 houses classified as non-farm dwelling units, and the median value of these was given as $5,626. The median gross monthly rental of renter-occupied units was given as $35.86.

With reference to retail trade, the county in 1948 (when the last business census was taken) had a total of 268 retail stores which employed 677 persons and which grossed $14,737,000 in sales. The largest number of retail establishments were food stores, which totaled 43 and which grossed $2,736,000 in sales. Next largest were eating and drinking places, which totaled 36 and which grossed $703,000 in sales. In 1948 there were 43 wholesale establishments in the county which employed 88 persons and which grossed $12,334,000 in sales. In 1947 there were 13 manufacturing establishments in the county which employed 384 persons and which produced goods, materials, etc. in the amount of $2,459,000.

As we have seen, Henry County obtains its greatest wealth from grain and livestock farming. In 1950 the county had a total of 1,783 farms, of which 1,598 were classified as commercial farms. More than 31 per cent of all farms were operated by tenants. The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was given as $25,231.

The value of all farm products—crops, livestock, poultry, dairy products—sold in 1949 was $12,028,000. Of this total, $7,482,000 was the value placed on livestock alone. Farm expenditures in that same year amounted to $2,050,000 for livestock and poultry feed and $494,000 for hired labor.

Total bank deposits in Henry County, as of December 30, 1950, amounted to $11,597,000. Total capital of the county's single savings and loan association, as of the same date, amounted to $1,552,000, with $1,763,000 in first mortgage loans outstanding.

CITY OF MOUNT PLEASANT

Largest city of Henry County, and the county's seat of justice, is Mount Pleasant. As the story of Mount Pleasant is largely the story of Henry County, details of the city's past may be found in the opening historical narrative of the present work. Today, the city has a total population of 5,843—an increase of 26.7 per cent over its 1940 population.

Located in almost the geographical center of the county, Mount Pleasant is known throughout the Hawkeye State as the site of Iowa Wesleyan College, the Henry County Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Hospital and the Iowa State Hospital for the Insane. The city is served by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and by US 34 and State 218, as well as by the Mount Pleasant City Airport. Mount Pleasant is twenty-eight miles northwest of Burlington city.

The city contains a number of manufacturing plants, principal one of which is the W. A. Sheaffer Company, manufacturers of fountain pens. There are three banks in the city with total resources of $7,920,214.23 and total deposits of $7,277,046.64. Here, also, are branches of such national chain stores as J. C. Penney, Ben Franklin, Walgreen and A&P. Only newspaper of the city is the Mount Pleasant News, which was founded in 1879 and which today has a circulation of 3,340.

In the southeast corner of the county, near Geode State Park, lies the small village of Lowell, with a present population of ninety. Alongside the village flows the Skunk River, principal stream of Henry County. Although a settlement was started here in early days, it was not until later that the village of Lowell was laid out by a pioneer named McCarver.

A combined church and schoolhouse, built of logs, is known to have stood here as early as 1836. Several years later a mill was built on the Skunk River here by Major Smith and Thomas Angel. This was wrecked by ice flows in 1857 and a new mill was built on the site by N. R. Smith and Caleb Webster. Today, Lowell is the only community of Baltimore Township, which has a total population of 563.

CANAAN TOWNSHIP

MOUNT UNION

MOUNT UNION

The small incorporated town of Mount Union, on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad northeast of Mount Pleasant, has a present population of 167. In addition to a number of retail stores and service establishments, the town has a postoffice and banking facilities. Mount Union was founded in the years after the Burlington railroad was built through the area, having supplanted an earlier village near its site called Cotton Grove. Today, this town is the only community of Canaan Township, which has a total population of 702. The township is entirely devoted to agriculture.

CENTER TOWNSHIP

At one time Center Township, in the center of the county, contained the city of Mount Pleasant, now the largest community of Henry County. When Mount Pleasant was formed into a township of its own, however, Center Township for the first time found itself without any town or village. Today, the township is entirely devoted to agriculture. In 1950 it had a total population of 2,093. Within the township are located the Iowa State Hospital for the Insane, the State Farm and the Mount Pleasant City Airport. The township was first settled by James Dawson—who also was the first settler of Henry County. He arrived in the spring of 1834 and staked out a claim just west of the site of Mount Pleasant.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP

JACKSON TOWNSHIP

Although a small settlement called Boyleston existed in Jackson Township during the 1860's and 1870's, the township has since then been without a town or village. Boyleston was located in the southeast corner of the township on the Skunk River. At an early period numerous Quaker families settled in Jackson Township, these having originally come from the Quaker village of Salem to the west. Today, Jackson Township has a total population of 533. It is entirely devoted to grain and livestock farming.

WAYLAND

Originally called Marshall when it was founded in 1851, the incorporated town of Wayland serves as the principal trading center of the farming community in the northwest portion of Henry County. The town has a present population of 600. Through it runs the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad.

Among the first settlers of Wayland at the time it was called Marshall were H. Williams, J. Plunkett, Zeno Plunkett, Lee Plunkett, R. N. Pickell, George Warren and Curtiss Plifton. The first store was opened here by R. N. Pickell, who also served as the town's first postmaster. Today, Wayland is the leading community of Jefferson Township, which has a total population of 1,386.

MARION TOWNSHIP

MARION TOWNSHIP

Level, fertile and well drained by numerous creeks, Marion Township lies just north of Mount Pleasant city. As there are no towns or villages in the township, its residents do their trading at nearby Mount Pleasant. Through the center of the township, from north to south, runs State 218, which enters Mount Pleasant. The township is entirely devoted to agriculture. There are numerous churches and rural schools in the locality. Some wooded groves may be found along Little Potomac, Brandywine and Lynn creeks in the township.

SALEM

It was in the Salem vicinity that the first settlement of Quakers west of the Mississippi River was established about 1835. This settlement became the "mother colony" of later Quaker communities in Iowa (in one of which, West Branch, was born Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States). The town of Salem was laid out in 1839 by Aaron Street and Peter Boyer. An early institution of higher learning here was Whittier College, founded in 1867 and named after the Quaker poet, John G. Whittier.

Today, the incorporated town of Salem has a population of 473. It is served by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and by several county highways. In addition to numerous retail stores and service establishments, Salem contains an ax handle factory, a feed mill and several grain elevators. It is the principal community of Salem Township, which has a total population of 1,224.

WINFIELD

Third largest community of Henry County is the incorporated town of Winfield, with a population of 888. It is located in the northeast corner of the county at the junction of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Minneapolis & St. Louis railroads. Here may be found numerous retail stores, service establishments, sash and door and cement and tile factories, as well as grain elevators and many grain storage bins of the government's Commodity Credit Corporation.

Winfield town was laid out on June 12, 1852, by Asbury Porter, pioneer land developer. The first storekeeper here was George Hoover, who also is believed to have been the first postmaster. Today, Winfield is the only community of Scott Township, which has a total population of 1,409. First settler of the township was B. Hocreiter, who arrived in 1836.

In the fertile farming country west of Mount Pleasant lies the small incorporated town of Rome, with a population of 134. Through it runs the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and US 34. The town was platted in 1846 by William Scott, an early settler. He first came to the area about 1837 and built a wayside inn on the site of Rome. Today, Rome is the principal community of Tippecanoe Township, which has a total population of 781. The township was first settled by a Mr. Thompson, who arrived in 1836.

If Trenton village, in the fertile farming area northwest of Mount Pleasant, is small in population, it is old in years. The village was platted in 1836, in the same year Henry County was created, by Michael Crane, early settler. It was at first called Lancaster. Soon afterwards, however, Crane sold his townsite to Samuel Brazelton, Colonel Parker and George Miller. These three men re-surveyed the village and changed its name to Trenton. Today, the village has a population of about fifty inhabitants. It is the only community of Trenton Township, which has a total population of 619.

On the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad, north of Mount Pleasant, stands the incorporated town of Olds, with a present population of 187. Through it runs US 218. Containing several grain elevators and many grain storage bins of the government's Commodity Credit Corporation, the town is an important shipping point for farmers in the north portion of the county. Olds is the principal community of Wayne Township, which has a total population of 964.

SWEDESBURG

Another community of Wayne Township is the village of Swedesburg, with a population of seventy-five. The village derived its name from the large number of Swedish immigrant families who settled here in its early years. A Lutheran church of the Augustana Synod was organized in the village in 1866, with the Reverend H. Olson as its first pastor. An earlier church, however, was the First Congregational Church of Wayne Township, organized in 1854.

Iowa Development Commission

Rolling prairieland and lush fields depict the Iowa scene.

IOWA, one of the prairie states, is a broad plain varying in altitude from 477 feet to 1,670 feet. Although some of the rivers are lined with bold and picturesque bluffs, most of the state is sufficiently level so that the roads have been laid out in checkerboard fashion. Iowa's eastern boundary is formed by the Mississippi River and its western boundary in part by the Missouri.

Numerous attractive lakes are scattered throughout the state, most of them in the north. This lake region of the north and northwest is one of the most important resort areas of Iowa. East and West Okoboji, Spirit Lake, Storm Lake and Clear Lake are especially notable. A number of fish hatcheries operated by the state have done much to improve the fishing in Iowa waters. Pike, trout and bass are plentiful.

VISITED in 1673 by Marquette and Joliet, the French explorers, Iowa again was visited in 1680 by Michel Accault and Father Hennepin. The latter left an account of his travels in this region in a journal entitled "Description of la Louisiane." As a result the French claimed the territory, although there had been previous claims by the Spanish government in 1493 by right of explorations of Christopher Columbus. France ceded her rights to Spain in 1762.

In 1788, Julien Dubuque, a French Canadian, crossed to the Iowa side of the Mississippi and established the first settlement. In 1796 he obtained a Spanish grant to an immense tract of land that included the site of the city now bearing his name. Erecting a trading post, he began mining lead and carried on a trade with the Indians until his death in 1810, when his holdings were abandoned.

The United States obtained possession of Iowa through the Louisiana Purchase in 1803, and the following year President Jefferson sent Lewis and Clark to explore the country. A strip of land west of the Mississippi River was opened to white settlement in 1833. Communities soon developed at †Dubuque, †Davenport, †Burlington, †Fort Madison and other places. When Iowa became a territory in 1838, Burlington was the temporary capital.

In 1845 the region around †Des Moines was thrown open to white settlement. Immigration, in spite of some Indian hostility, was rapid. In 1846 a constitution was adopted and Iowa was admitted to the Union. The first state legislature met in Iowa City. Des Moines became the capital in 1857.

FROM the time of the earliest settlement, Iowa has been important agriculturally, leading all states in the proportion of area under cultivation. It produces more corn than any other area of equal size in the world and is the source of one-tenth of the world's corn crop. More oats and hogs are raised here than in any other state, and Iowa ranks first in the cash value of cattle. The state is also an important producer of butter, eggs, fruit and nuts, popcorn and timothy seed. Vegetables and nursery products also are raised extensively.

Iowa leads the states in per capita wealth, as well as in value of farm buildings and equipment. Many industries thrive here, including a number of industrial plants which are the largest in the world of their kind.

The most important industries in Iowa are the processing of agricultural products and the handling of grain and livestock. Leading manufactured products include farm implements, washing machines, fountain pens, cosmetics, buttons, railroad equipment, furnaces, lawn mowers, calendars, cartons, vending machines, auto accessories, earth-moving and rock-crushing equipment, sheet aluminum, electro-metals and office equipment.

More than 2 million tons of coal are mined annually in the state. There is a broad belt of coal on both sides of the Des Moines River, and important deposits in southwestern Iowa. Cement and clay also are produced in large quantities; lead and zinc were mined in early days. Important gypsum deposits are east of Fort Dodge.

State Recreation Areas

In many of Iowa's recreational areas, campgrounds are available to visitors for 50 cents a night per camping unit, or $2.50 a week. Lodges for social gatherings are available in many of the parks; summer rates effective May 1 to Oct. 1; winter, Oct. 1 to May 1. Cabins may be rented from $3.75 to $9 per day, depending upon the area in which they are located. A limited number of cabins for organized groups rent at 25c per person per day. Requests for reservations should be directed to the park custodian at the town indicated as nearest the park.
